The National Justice Party: Wrong Place, Wrong Time and Orange Trumpism

Almost all institution building on the dissident right to actually affect political change has failed. Most of it that exists is confined to writing, shitposting and podcasting. While all of this is necessary, it is not enough. Apparently, the folks over at TRS have had enough of the two-party system and decided to start their own: The National Justice Party. While I sympathize with the idea, I think this is the wrong time and wrong way to go about this. Let's look at their unofficial platform:

> –Extend the protections of the Civil Rights Act to the white majority.
>
> –Officially declare America a European majority state, as the Founders intended.
>
> –Let people pray in public, protect the right to bear arms, and guarantee the right to free expression — all proud aspects of the American tradition to be upheld against all tyranny, whether private or public.
>
> –A complete end to immigration of all kinds as well as full enforcement of existing laws against those here illegally.
>
> –An end to usury.
>
> –Restoration of the right to free association, including in respects to race and sexual "preference."
>
> –A new economic system where those who work and contribute to society can live with dignity, as well as the embrace of automation to shorten the work week, lower the retirement age and increase pensions.
>
> –A culture of respect for motherhood, the family and a complete ban on unnatural sexual practices being taught in schools.
>
> –No more war or foreign entanglements, especially not in the service of foreign interests like Israel.
> –Put the banks, big business, mass media, universities and other institutions back in the hands of the nation to serve their fatherland first, with an affirmative action program that caps Jewish representation at their population number of 2% so their power can be checked by public accountability.

No serious White person could disagree with any of this. It is all pro-White, pro-social and promotes our people. However, getting back the criticisms, I think this is the wrong time to do this. First of all, third parties are incredibly insecure and rarely win elections beyond local ones. Even state elections are hard to win as an independent or third-party.

Secondly, I'm going to go out on a limb and predict this will become a glorified boys club. They have no candidates, no official platform and no plan that I can see. Have any of the people running this know how to or have in the past run successful campaigns? Do they know the laws? Do they know how to get donors on board? Do they even have the ability to raise money, especially during Covid, when most people are strapped for cash? Questions abound.

But the biggest problem is orange: Donald Trump. Much of the dissident right has come to the conclusion that Trump is a con man. However, too many believe we are better off with Trump. They then proceed to tell you horror stories about the gulags White people will be thrown into if Trump loses. Conservatives are already doing pre-damage control if Trump loses to Biden.

We need to ride out this hysteria. Trump needs to be gone and forgotten so we can think straight. But even when he is gone, right-wing populism or “Trumpism”, if you will, won’t be gone. Or will it? We need to see what happens when Trump is gone, whether it be in 2020 or after his second term. Until then, I fear this whole endeavor will be futile. We shall see…prove me wrong guys, I don’t think you will.
